Re: Kimberley Coole

To whom this may concern,

This is to confirm that Kimberley Coole has been a photographer for Lonely Planet Images for over two years.

During this time, we have found her work to be of a consistently high standard; not only do her images stand out, but the accompanying metadata is also meticulously prepared and presented.

She is a prolific contributor to our library; and one that contributes dynamic and original images that add colour and flair to our collection.

She is also extremely pleasant and cooperative to deal with on a personal level and I would have no hesitation recommending her to you.

Yours faithfully
